

12-12-2011

The Chanticleer, 2011-12-12

Coastal Carolina University

Follow this and additional works at: <https://digitalcommons.coastal.edu/chanticleer>

Part of the Higher Education Commons, and the History Commons

Recommended Citation

Coastal Carolina University, "The Chanticleer, 2011-12-12" (2011). The Chanticleer Student Newspaper. 578.
<https://digitalcommons.coastal.edu/chanticleer/578>

This Newspaper is brought to you for free and open access by the Kimbel Library and Bryan Information Commons at CCU Digital Commons. It has been accepted for inclusion in The Chanticleer Student Newspaper by an authorized administrator of CCU Digital Commons. For more information, please contact commons@coastal.edu.

NEWS

2

Funding Campus Clubs

-Is there a better way to support campus organizations?

FEATURES

4

Crunch Time Crime

-Securing your possessions when crime peaks

STUDENT LIFE

6

Alpha Delta Pi

-A look into a CCU sorority

OPINION

7

A Night of Fights

-A refreshing, yet barbaric feeling

SPORTS

8

Soccer Programs Receive Honor

-Men's and Women's teams recognised in the classroom

BREAK? WHAT BREAK?

Maintenance worker trims lawn

Photo Courtesy of Chad Yates

CCU support staff works hard while students are away

JOSH FATZICK

So it's the end of the semester, and after the last student turns in the last final exam, somebody shuts the lights off and everyone goes home for a month, right?

Wrong. While students are away spending Christmas break with their families and thinking about everything under the sun (except for school), the people behind the scenes are hard at work keeping Coastal Carolina's campus in top shape.

"The mowers keep moving," said Timothy Shank, Superintendent of Grounds and Facilities. "It's pretty much business as usual as far as operational things and outdoor maintenance, and we also have a few special projects with outside contractors."

Shank plans to install new landscaping around the Marine and Wetlands building and the new Bryan Information Commons as well as put some new plants around Bill Baxley hall.

Grounds crews get one week off of work between Christmas and New Years, but the grass stills grows while they are gone, and when they get back there will be a lot of work to do getting campus ready for the new semester. However, they may have to do it without the help of their student workers and community service appointees.

"If they want to come back the week after the first when we do, they can, but typically they don't," Shank said.

While not as busy as normal, campus police will still be on scene to make sure nothing happens to students' property while they are gone over break and to do their normal job of keeping campus safe.

"Our call volume does drop off, but we still have quite a few, so we won't be taking much time off," said Scott Suttle, Lieutenant of Public Safety.

Since some students choose to leave their cars and other valuables at school while they go home, police are concerned about burglaries and other crimes, so they continue to patrol campus as they normally do and work at the various sporting events planned for Christmas break, according to Suttles.

Work will continue on the Swain Science Center, the energy plant, the Bryan Information Commons, and the new academic offices over break as well, according to Rein Mungo, Director of University Projects and Planning.

"All the major projects will continue," he said.

Mungo and his crew plan to start painting all of the bathrooms in the academic buildings on campus, and possibly some classrooms.

"We do a bunch of little in-house projects," he said. "We're going to start in the Wall building and try to do the academic classrooms and bathrooms over Christmas break."

Maintenance crews will also install new carpet in some of the academic buildings and change all of the air filters in the residence halls over break. So if you come back in January and notice your room no longer smells like old pizza and body odor, it wasn't a miracle, they just changed the filters.

AWAKENING TO AMERICA'S ANTI-ECONOMY AND LEARNING SOLUTIONS

Student's views on literal economics vs. American economics

ROBERT MUSIC

Current Occupy Wallstreet reports, as well as stories on the status of the American economy, fill the headlines but constantly shift between ascending and descending states and the majority of reports are, "Confusing, boring and are overall ineffective at informing CCU students and the general public about true economic problems and don't provide solutions," according to Marissa Terry, senior Education major.

Economies are systems in which goods and services are produced, sold and bought in a country or region, according to Merriam-Webster's online dictionary.

The definition goes on to describe how an economy should be thrifty and efficient in its use of material and non-material resources while being mindful of its expenses.

"It's sad to see how far our country and society have strayed away from the literal definition of an economy," said Dina Corradetti, junior Biology major. "Right now as a species, we just blindly spend, then consume anything we can get our hands on and aren't taught to collaborate to find ways to preserve and sustain the planet."

"Sustainability in today's world is seen through a variety of perspectives, ranging from a subject the tree-hugging, college youth like to embrace; to a business typically viewed as being non-profitable or too expensive," Corradetti added.

Johann Wolfgang von Goethe was a German writer and pictorial artist known for famously stating, "None are more hopelessly enslaved than those who falsely believe they are free."

"Wolfgang's quote can relate to the CCU community and most people on earth," said Leigha Peterson, CCU Eco-rep and senior Marine Science major. "My friends and I talk about how Americans, early on, heavily learn about being free but essentially end up being slaves of a monetary system they never fully understand."

"However, I think everyday people are steadily going through a global shift in consciousness and are seeing the flaws in the ways today's systems operate, thus resulting in a variety of drastic global movements occurring around the world," Peterson added.

CCU students and all of America currently operate under and use an economic system known as Modern Money Mechanics.

The complete booklet on this system was originally produced and distributed for free by the Public Information Center of the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago.

Photo Courtesy of thevenusproject.com

The booklet can be obtained and read for free anytime simply by doing a Google search for Modern Money Mechanics.

The purpose of the book is outlined on the first page and overall describes the basic process of money creation in a fractional reserve banking system.

Overall, the booklet explains the use of money via the use of a central bank in today's world using heavy banking terminology.

MEET THE STAFF

SHANE NORRIS
Editor

CHAD YATES
Asst. Editor

JENNA KAZMIERCZAK
Art Director

News Editor:
Josh Fatzick

Section Editors:
TJ Sundberg
Lindsey Ryon
Cari Nogas

Business Manager:
James Zeller

Faculty Advisor:
Michelle Carolla
*The Department of Communication
and Journalism*

On Campus Location:
Student Center 204 L

Contact:
(843) 349-2330
chanticleernews@gmail.com

P.O. Box 261954
Conway, SC
29528

The Chanticleer is the editorially independent student-produced newspaper of Coastal Carolina University. It is published weekly during the fall and spring semesters with an Orientation Issue distributed during summer months.

Opinions expressed in The Chanticleer are those of the editors or author and do not necessarily express the opinions of the university's student body, administration, faculty or staff.

Letters to the editor are welcome from the CCU community. The editor reserves the right to condense submissions and edit for libel and space. Submission does not guarantee publication.

Advertisements are paid advertisements and reflect the views and opinions of the advertiser, not The Chanticleer or Coastal Carolina University.

Some material MAY NOT be suitable for people under 17 years of age.

The Chanticleer is committed to accuracy. If you find an error in this edition of The Chanticleer, let us know. Report mistakes to: thechanticleer@gmail.com and corrections will be printed in the following issue.

the CHANTICLEER

EMAIL QUESTIONS, LETTERS
TO THE EDITOR, AND CORRECTIONS TO:
CHANTICLEERNEWS@GMAIL.COM

STUDENT CLUBS REQUEST MORE HELP FINANCIALLY

CHRISTIAN GAMBLE

Universities often push their students to join student organizations. However, the façade student organizations depict doesn't always show the financial woes many of them are faced with.

Kiwanis International Circle K President Terrence Parson said that outside support always supported their organization. According to the Kiwanis International website, the foundation is a "multimillion-dollar organization that awards grants to Kiwanis clubs." However, the Circle K club at CCU, after losing support from their sponsors, is facing financial troubles.

After requesting money from CCU's Student Government, the club only received $500. Now, Parson said the club is turning to its own members to help.

"We have an annual club due which is $20, and we are going to use that money to pay our Kiwanis fee," he said.

After that bill is paid off, Circle K will have a standing balance of $0. Parson said Circle K is a community service organization, so it does not put on any events that need excessive funding. However, it does travel extensively and the money it requested would have helped greatly.

Kristina Schediner is the President of the Coastal Carolina Women's Club Soccer team. Schediner said that unlike the school's athletic teams, club sports have to request money in order to stay active. Student athletics are sponsored by CCU, where club sports are not.

"We requested about $6,000 to 7,000 for this year," said Schediner. "We didn't get to see half of that."

In fact, Schediner's club only received 15 percent of what it asked, which only amounted to $900.

"It's not enough to function and play. If we did not have equipment to use already, we wouldn't be able to play," said Schediner.

Schediner said the club hopes to go to the Clemson Soccer Tournament in the spring, which will cost around $1,000 to attend, not including travel and rooming expenses.

Schediner said the club depends heavily on fundraisers such as car washes, and is sponsored by Huddle House.

"Yogen Fruz even allowed our members to work their stand at the mall, giving us 20% of the profit that was made," said Schediner.

From working at Yogen Fruz for two hours, Schediner said the club was able to raise $200. Going to outside sources for financial assistance seems to be the way many clubs support themselves.

The people who have control over the funds given to student organizations are those in CCU's Student Government Association. According to the Vice President of Finance Thomas Kelly, SGA is given $20,500 to distribute to more than 30 organizations on campus. If divided evenly among the organizations, each would roughly receive around $600. Instead of simply dividing funds equally among clubs, Kelly said that SGA asks all clubs to propose a budget of how much money they need.

"The finance board meets and reviews budgets as well as have a club representative come in and speak on behalf of the budget if there needs to be any clarifications," said Kelly.

Kelly acknowledged SGA has a set of guidelines that it follows to determine a budget for an organization. Some factors Kelly said they look at are how much fundraising a club has or is expected to have, how many members they have and members' dues. They also look at how the club is enriching the student life at Coastal.

"There is no bias towards distributing funds," said Kelly. "If a student on the board is a member of an organization that is submitting a budget, he or she is expected to inform the board."

Kelly said SGA tries to give as much as it can to each organization. If a club needs additional funding, Kelly suggest that it increase membership dues and do more fundraising.

However, according to Parson, increased Circle K dues just ran members away, and the money from fundraising did not go very far.

Secretary Octavia Drummond, who handles all the information for Circle K, knows firsthand about the money that is not present in their organization.

"We do not know how we are going to get funding," said Drummond. "And we don't receive much money from fundraising."

Drummond and Parson recently met with a Kiwanis advisor about the current financial state of their organization.

According to Kelly, the money allotted to student organizations at the beginning of the year is supposed to last the entire school year. However, according to Schediner, Dodson and Parson, who are struggling to keep their organizations financially stable, the funds given to them by SGA do not last long.

"Clubs should receive no less than $1000 each year," said Schediner. "It's not much but it would help."

Kelly said the SGA is given a set budget and expected to distribute to the student organizations to the best of their abilities. Kelly said simply giving each organization $1000 is not possible.

"Mathematically speaking, the number of clubs that submit budgets and the budget we have would simply not add up," said Kelly.

WHAT'S UP WITH THE RA'S?

Students express concern in being informed their RA will not return next semester

KRISTA GIERLACH

As many students are aware, at the end of the semester many make the decision to transfer or switch majors. This year, there is an exceptional number of Resident Assistants (RA) that are choosing to resign from their position, have been fired or are leaving the school altogether. This problem has proven to be most prevalent in all phases of University Place. Being an RA demands excessive amounts of time, making it an enormous commitment.

A sophomore, first year RA who asked to remain anonymous suggests the main reason for the occurrence of resigning RA's is due to the new payment plan and the hiring of desk assistants.

In previous years, RA's were granted full housing and meal plans for their services. In addition, they were also paid to be desk assistants in the resident activity houses (UP) and front offices (Ingle and Eaglin). However, this year, University Housing decided that RA's weren't spending enough time with their residents and made the decision to declare the desk assistant position as an entirely separate job.

The anonymous source expressed immense dismay and concern in sharing that, regardless of this supposed separations, it seems as though the RA's spend a lot of time helping the desk assistants with their job.

When asked, several Resident Directors (RD) declined to comment, saying they did not have time because they were closing out the semester and selecting new RA's to fill the positions.

Sophomore UP Phase 1 RA Becca Hernandez is transferring to Clemson next semester, but claims that aside from some of the issues, she enjoyed her time as an RA.

"I think it's because I got lucky with the staff I worked with and the students in my building," said Hernandez.

Students also expressed concern with the RA's leaving.

"It's unfortunate to lose my RA, because I spent all semester getting to know and trust her, and now we're forced to start over," said Julia Dingle, freshman Dramatic Arts major. "It's also intimidating to think there's a chance I won't have an RA."

Freshman Psychology major, Mallory Hudson, agreed.

"I'm very, very sad to lose my RA," said Hudson.

As the anonymous RA added, in the event that there aren't enough acceptable RA's to fill the amount of openings, some will have to take on multiple buildings with no extra pay.

"There is no problem and all RA slots will be filled," according to Michael Hoffshire, Eaglin RD.

Photo Courtesy of thevenusproject.com

AWAKENING TO AMERICA'S ANTI-ECONOMY AND LEARNING SOLUTIONS CONTD.

ROBERT MUSIC

A Youtube movie featuring Wolfgang's quote, titled Zeitgeist Addendum on Modern Money Mechanics, also goes over the booklet.

"The Zeitgeist films are amazing and go over what I feel many people are thinking about, and more people should watch them," said Alysa Heilmann, CCU alumnus and AmeriCorps member. "The movie on modern money mechanics reviews the booklet on our current central banking economic system."

"It explains how our economy is fueled by cash, which essentially is created from debt, and describes how it's nearly impossible for people to understand this system if unfamiliar with banking terms," according to Heilmann.

"The movie goes on to discuss how the Federal Reserve system of creating money out of debt is spiraling out of control and overall is a doomed anti-economic system," Heilmann added.

Solutions to solve today's systems are constantly growing, but typically are not reported by mainstream media due to agenda setting in the industry. However, answers can be found in a variety of places by searching online and on campus.

Stumbleupon.com is a great source for CCU students or anyone wanting to learn more about innovations in sustainable technology. Stumble users can stumble across a huge variety of alternative energy websites.

These websites contain stories, pictures and videos about sustainable innovations and products seeking publicity.

"I DJ for a radio show, the Positive News Network at Coastal Carolina University or PNN@CCU, that reports on positive news here on campus for those seeking an agenda free positive news source," said Kyle Dickson, junior Communication major. "A good majority of the sustainability topics discussed on the air come from stumble."

A new innovative socioeconomic plan seeking to reform our global economy has come into existence, known as the Venus Project, and this project aims to provide enough for everyone on Earth.

The Venus Project offers a comprehensive plan for social reclamation in which human beings, technology and nature will be able to coexist in a long term, sustainable state of dynamic equilibrium, according to the project's official website, thevenusproject.com.

A variety of videos show and review the true potential of sustainable human technology on the website. Videos about future cities of the sea, cities of the land, energy, transportation, housing, construction and space usage all can be viewed, and everything in the program is created with the literal definition of an economy in mind.

"A wise friend once told me how resources are finite on Earth, but human imagination and ingenuity are infinite, so I do believe anything is possible," said senior Communication major Suzanna Menard. "We must not doubt this, and use communication to collaborate to either reform our flawed systems in existence or establish new ones capable of sustaining of sustaining our species."

GOODBYE MICHELLE

As a personal thank you to our faculty advisor, we would like to acknowledge the hard work of Michelle Carolla and her dedication to The Chanticleer. Michelle has done so much as faculty advisor for The Chanticleer, as well as WCCU Radio, where she holds the same position.

Next semester, Michelle will take her talents to Madison, Wisconsin as a lead anchor in the 85th ranked television market, a huge step in her life. For any of you who may know her personally, make sure you congratulate her and wish her the best of luck in her future endeavors.

As for her replacement as advisor for The Chanticleer, the status is currently unknown, but either an interim or full time advisor will be named by the start of next semester.

We are very fortunate and grateful to work with someone of Mrs. Carolla's knowledge and passion for journalism. Those skills have carried over and helped only improve our paper as a whole.

Best of luck, Michelle.

Global fisheries are overfished beyond capacity by about 75%.

Recycling glass bottles helps save resources and can be surprisingly inspiring.

Our society wastes enough sporks to circle the earth, and then some.

We Americans today create double the amount of garbage today than we did 30 years ago.

IN OTHER NEWS

World - Mexico foiled plan to smuggle in Gaddafi son

(Reuters) - Mexico uncovered and stopped an international plot to smuggle late Libyan leader Muammar Gaddafi's son Saadi into the country using fake names and false papers, authorities said Wednesday.

A Canadian woman, a Danish man and two Mexicans were arrested on November 10 and 11 over an elaborate plan to bring Saadi Gaddafi, who is now in Niger, and his family to Mexico using forged documents, safe houses and private flights, they said.

Mexican officials acted on a tip in September about the network, which planned to settle the family near the popular tourist spot of Puerto Vallarta on the Pacific coast, Interior Minister Alejandro Poire said.

In preparation for the family's arrival, the criminal ring bought properties around Mexico and opened bank accounts. It also arranged for private flights to smuggle in the family and set up identities under assumed names, including Moah Bejar Sayed and Amira Sayed Nader, authorities said.

The plotters themselves used a network of flights between Mexico, the United States, Canada, Kosovo and the Middle East to plan the route and organize the logistics for Saadi's arrival, Poire said.

The plan was to bring Saadi - a businessman and former professional soccer player - and his family to a multimillion-dollar estate in Punta Mita, the Canadian newspaper National Post reported.

USA - Virginia Tech shooting claims two lives (Reuters) - A shooting left a police officer and another person dead on Thursday, Dec. 12, at Virginia Tech University.

The incident took place during a routine traffic stop that ended in an exchange of gunfire. Virginia Tech reported in a statement that another victim was found in a nearby parking lot.

After the shooting the suspect fled on foot and soon after police swarmed campus. Students and faculty were directed to hunker down in school buildings and dorms as the police searched for the shooter.

Police declined to say if they suspected a murder-suicide and offered no motive for the crime in a press conference held after the incident. They also would neither confirm nor deny that the second body was that of the gunman, but did mention there was a gun found near the body.

Police were investigating the possibility that the shooter was involved with a nearby robbery that took place earlier that day.

Several hours after the incident the university declared an end to the active threat on campus, but final exams, which were scheduled to start next week were postponed.

State - Colbert tried to sponsor SC presidential primary

(The Sun News) - Comedian Stephen Colbert tried yet again to get his name on South Carolina's presidential primary ballot - only this time he wanted to sponsor the Republican contest.

GOP officials in the state said they met with Colbert several times this fall to discuss a potential sponsorship of the first-in-the-South Republican primary. Colbert offered more than $100,000 to name the contest the "The Colbert Nation Super PAC Presidential Primary."

The Republican Party has been scrambling to raise nearly $800,000 needed for the primary, but they have said they will be able to do it. Also, several counties sued challenging the state's right to hold the primary at all, but last month the state Supreme Court green-lighted the balloting. GOP officials said that decision ended discussions with Colbert.

"Stephen Colbert, the world's most famous living South Carolinian, approached the party with a sponsorship opportunity," executive director Matt Moore said. "The party respectfully declined. We wish Mr. Colbert nothing but the best."

Colbert also sought naming rights for a debate several days before the Jan. 21 primary, but Fox News Channel holds the exclusive rights.

4 features

The Chanticleer Vol: 50 Issue 11

Damage done to Griggs' car on campus

Photo Courtesy of Sarahanne Griggs

THE SHATTERING TRUTH ABOUT CRIME ON CAMPUS

Criminal acts during the holidays and preventing them

RHONDA TAYLOR

While the holidays are rapidly approaching, so are the criminal acts on Coastal's campus. Just recently, a former students' back window was shattered by a fairly large rock near Ingle Hall.

"The officer that helped me out came immediately and was very cooperative. However, I do think more working cameras should be installed," said Sarahanne Griggs, freshman English major.

Although Griggs felt the Department of Public Safety (DPS) was helpful for the most part, there are mixed feelings according to other Coastal students.

Julian Pierson, a freshman Finance major, felt the Department of Public Safety was not up to par with their duties after his Xbox, along with other items, were stolen out of his room in Oak Hall over Thanksgiving break. The same goes for Juan Olguin, sophomore Accounting major, whose tires were slit near the Wall building. According to DPS, there was nothing the officers could do about it, since the one camera installed by the building didn't catch the act.

"I do not feel that security on campus is good, it could definitely be better. What if someone was abducted at night and because Coastal doesn't have cameras the attacker runs free?" says Andrea Robinson, junior Political Science major.

Robinson expressed her concerns after hearing about Juan's tires being slit. She felt the incident could have been solved in a better manner if there were cameras to catch the suspect.

"It makes me think that someone could have been getting mugged or hurt and no one would have noticed," said Griggs.

Although these Coastal students have different opinions about how DPS conducts, the over-arching concern is the lack of cameras on campus.

There should be safety precautions students should take when checking out for winter break. Because the majority of students have to check out and cannot be on campus for a while, students should take any personal items with them wherever they go.

By doing this, students don't have to worry about those things being stolen. When driving around campus or anywhere else, it is best to make sure no personal items can be seen from the outside. People can spot those items from outside the car and try to break in. Personal items should be put in the trunk or out of eyesight. And the most obvious of all; lock your doors.

WAYS TO GET INVOLVED IN ACTIVISM

Making a difference in the community

CHRISTIAN GAMBLE

The international "16 Days of Activism against Gender Violence Campaign" ended on Friday Dec. 9, on Human Rights Day.

Paige Whaley, assistant director at the Women's Resource Center, said the purpose of the event was to shed light on gender violence.

"Gender violence is not limited to just one area," said Whaley. "And it is important to cover as many of the issues as possible in the limited time frame."

Even though the 16 days are over, Whaley said students still have the opportunity to involve themselves in organizations that focus on activism in the Conway/Myrtle Beach community.

"I believe students should get involved [in activism]," said Whaley. "They'll develop relationships and skills that can be used for the rest of their lives and they'd have a chance to make a difference in people's lives and in their community."

Whaley said that a club is being formed now to help the fight against human trafficking. If students are interested, they can contact Cynthia Storer at cstorer@coastal.edu. If students want to get more information about the Women Resource Center or their events they can call 843-349-2218.

Places students can contact to get involved in activism:

Committee Against Spouse Abuse (CASA):
(843)-626-7595 | (843)-448-6206

Children's Recovery Center:
843-448-3400 | childrensrecoverycenter.org

Eastern Carolina Coalition Against Human Trafficking (ECCAHT)
843-997-3915 or at ECCAHT.org

Family Justice Center of Georgetown:
843-546-3926 | fjcgeorgetown.org

Rape Crisis Center
843-448-7273 | victimtosurvivor.org

Zonta of Myrtle Beach
843-997-3915 | zontamyrtlebeach.org

Women and Gender Studies
843-349-6548 | coastal.edu/wgst

Women's Resource Center
843-349-2218 | coastal.edu/wrc

BUYING USED OVER NEW FOR THE 2012 HOLIDAY SEASON

Thrift and buy used to get the most for your money

ROBERT MUSIC

Shopping during the holiday season can be a stressful time for college students due to the lack of finances, but learning to thrift and buy used can help get the most out of any college students' holiday money.

Stores like the Salvation Army and Goodwill offer used clothes and items for really low prices. Selections vary by store and typically depend on what is donated locally.

"Thrifting is like gambling; it takes time but you can win if you're lucky," said CCU Eco-Rep and Marine Science major, Leigha Peterson. "The best part is how much money you save and how much more you can get."

Besides clothing, some Goodwill's offer used furniture and appliances at affordable prices, and if anything goes wrong you can return appliances within the first three days.

"My parents and I went shopping at Goodwill for my place to save," said Lindsey Pendleton, senior Music major. "I got a used vacuum for $20 and it works perfectly fine, and I'll totally be going back with my Christmas money."

Other than saving money, transitioning to buying used helps prevent waste from ending up in landfills and helps contribute to saving the planet.

"The age old saying 'one's trash is another's treasure' seems to be forgotten sometimes," said Haven Hillard, junior Music Major.

CHARGE BATTERIES VIA SOLAR ENERGY

Quad Travel Charger Plus

ROBERT MUSIC

Spending money on common appliance batteries for CCU students and consumers can now become a thing of the past due to the Quad Travel Charger Plus, currently for sale on siliconsolar.com.

This travel charger is a solar battery charger able to ensure your AA or AAA rechargeable batteries are always charged and ready to go when you need, according to the product details listed on the website.

Features described on the website include a belt clip able to adjust for maximum sun exposure and a Quad Travel Charger able to charge up to 4 AA or 4 AAA batteries at a time.

Solar battery charger

Photo Courtesy of siliconsolar.com

"The cost of new batteries is ridiculous," said Kylie Nilson, senior Art major. "My remote and Wii controller are always dying so I just don't use them. Anyone spending money on batteries can benefit from using a Quad Travel Charger," Nilson added.

The product details mention batteries are not included with the charger, and users must charge four batteries at once, and they must all be the same size.

The AA and AAA Solar Battery Charger is ideal for campers and hikers who want to be able to take their electronic devices along on their travels.

Siliconsolar.com currently lists the charger price at $6.80 prior to tax and shipping fees.

With a low cost, the Quad Travel Charger Plus essentially overpays for itself, and is sustainable holiday gift for college students or anyone seeking to save on battery expenses.

Photo Courtesy of Lindsey Ryon

HOLIDAY SHOP AND SAVE

Ways to save with tight pockets
LINDSEY RYON

A little tough to reach into your pocket this holiday? Here are a few ways to save a few bucks this year when shopping before the big day.

Everyone looks forward to the biggest shopping day of the year, Black Friday. Whether you're shopping for yourself or for gifts for others, Black Friday is a day where stores put up extra 'red-dot' signs on a few more items than usual. There are no real bargains. The excitement of midnight shopping just doesn't do it for some people. But for others, it's the night of their life.

Because of the shopping craziness, 40 percent of Americans this year are doing their holiday shopping online. Technology like smartphones, tablets and computers is helping people bargain hunt, using things like print-and-save coupons and BOGO (Buy one, get one) events. Check out new apps for your smartphone on ways to save while you shop. Let's just say that technology is Santa's little helper this year.

There are just a few steps to keep in mind when trying to save money on holiday shopping. About 35 percent of shoppers are redeeming credit card reward points to use towards gifts. Also, remember that a homemade gift, or offering to help out at an event is a better present than any material gift would ever be.

Give yourself plenty of time to do your shopping. When you are rushed to buy gifts, you will pretty much buy anything and go way beyond your budget. Check out the Dollar Store for stocking stuffers and local thrift shops for great deals. Follow these tips to keep your pockets a little fuller during the season:

Holiday Shopping iPhone Apps:

- DealMap (FREE) - Geographic map of discounts
- Google Shopper (FREE) - Price comparison and reviews
- Coupon Sherpa (FREE) - Mobile coupon delivery
- FastMall (FREE) - Download maps of malls
- Gift List ($.99) - Digital shopping list w/ budget

Tips on ways to save: (Source: BankRate.com)

- Decide how much you can spend. Set a budget.
- Make a list and check it twice. After creating the budget, make a list of who you want to buy for, and then decide how much to spend on each person.
- Pay cash, if not, then use a credit card that has the lowest interest rate and pay it off immediately after the holidays.
- Don't just budget your money, budget your TIME! Timely planning can save you tons of money.
- Buy a few of the bigger, more expensive gifts a few months before the holidays. Prices skyrocket once the holidays begin.
- Buys gifts after the holiday is over. You can save up to 50-75% on next year's gifts.
- If you're stuck on what to buy for someone, you can never go wrong with a gift card to a department store or restaurant.

Presentation on Dream Careers

Photo Courtesy of Chad Yates

LIVE THE DREAM

Coastal tags up with Dream Careers for internship opportunities
CHAD YATES

Have you ever wanted the experience of traveling overseas to exotic locations, but haven't quite come across the right study abroad program or opportunity to do so? Well, look no further, as Coastal Carolina University recently teamed up with Dream Careers, a program that offers guaranteed internships in a variety of different locations, offering real life experiences in practically any field.

The program offers summer internships in the following locations: Barcelona, Costa Rica, Hong Kong and London. As well as offering summer internships in those international locations, the program offers fall or spring internships in these U.S. locations: Boston, Chicago, Washington, D.C., Los Angeles, New York,

San Francisco and Silicon Valley.

While the program requires a $999 initial deposit, financial aid is available to help students pay for the opportunity. The programs range from $7,500 to $10,000, and generally last about two months. While this is a pretty penny, there are a few things that must be considered, like the fact that housing, transportation within your designated city and meal plans are included in that fee. Also, college credits can be offered through the program, while filling an internship requirement that most students must complete to graduate.

"I traveled abroad last summer, and it was awesome," said Dylan Richardson, senior Recreation and Sport Management major. "I'd recommend for everybody to do it. It was the experience of a lifetime."

Essentially, how the program works is you tell Dream Careers what type of internship you would like to obtain, then they work with you to professionally revise your resume for that specific job field. After your resume is professionally revised, Dream Career employees go out and actively seek companies for you to intern with. If offered an internship that you don't want, there is no obligation to accept it. If an internship of your liking is not found as of two weeks before the start date, a full refund of your money is issued.

Detailed descriptions of the programs can be found online at summerinternships.com/students, as well as information sessions offered. Dates and times of information sessions are available at Career Services in the Indigo House.

Off-campus Events 12/12 - 12/18

Rivertown Christmas

12/15 Evening - Carolers, cookies and cocoa for all!
Downtown Conway

"A Christmas Story"

12/16 at 7:30 p.m.
79th Avenue Theatre, Myrtle Beach

Josh Brennan Band

12/16 at 9 p.m.
Southside Raw Bar, Murrells Inlet

The 10th Annual NAACP Freedom Fund & Christmas Gala

12/17 at 6 p.m.
Air Base Recreational Center, Myrtle Beach

Breakfast with Santa

12/17 at 9 p.m.
The Market Common, Myrtle Beach

Rivertown Bluegrass Society

12/17 at 5 p.m.
Horry-Georgetown Technical College, Conway

The Royal Ballet: The Nutcracker

12/18 at 2:30 p.m.
Carmike Broadway 16, Myrtle Beach

Photo Courtesy of Alexx Altman

NUTRITION TIPS FOR THE HOLIDAYS

ALEXX ALTMAN

Turkey, honey ham, mashed potatoes, pumpkin pie and egg nog

All of these foods are infamous culprits for the holiday weight gain one might adopt over the month-long Christmas break.

Not to mention participating in the wonderful activity of nothing.

Instead of avoiding these delicious foods, use these tips and tricks to help have a guilt-free break:

We all know that alcohol may be involved on this special occasion.

"Alcoholic calories do add up to total calorie intake and cause less self-control in food choices," said Sharon Thompson, professor of Nutrition and Wellness at Coastal Carolina University. "Drink water between beverages with alcohol."

You can't have your dessert without coffee.

"Holiday coffee beverages can also provide many calories," said Thompson. "Try looking up the calories before having some."

According to JavaCity.com, a MerriMint White Mocha has 305 calories.

Try to have some variety for dinner.

"Aim for color on a plate rather than brown and beige, add more fruits and vegetables," said Thompson.

Living in the South can help to add on the pounds as well.

"Try to avoid anything fried," said Thompson.

5...4...3...2...1! Happy New Years!

While waiting for midnight on December 31st, the late night munchies can hit.

"Watch late night eating and keep to a minimum," said Thompson. "Again, there can be less self-control at night when you're tired."

After a night of partying it's always best to avoid an empty stomach and eat.

"Don't skip breakfast," said Thompson.

"I won't care much when I'm eating Christmas dinners with the family," said Christina Davis, freshman Marine Science major. "Otherwise I'm going to watch it to a point so that I don't gain a lot of weight over break."

Whether you plan to pig out over break or watch what you eat is up to you.

Just some food for thought.

6 student life

The Chanticleer Vol: 50 Issue 11

Photo Courtesy of Kristyn Clark

Photo Courtesy of Bryce Spiegel

MEET THE GREEK

CARI NOGAS

Kristyn Clark

Senior
Resort Tourism Management
Alpha Delta Pi

What are your commitments outside of your sorority?

I'm a part of the mentoring program, a member of a few honor societies and I've held two executive positions. The two positions are Membership Education Vice President and Finance Vice President.

What does your organization do to get involved with the community?

We participate in our philanthropy, Ronald McDonald House, in Relay for Life and support other organizations' events and fundraisers. We also just recently had a polar bear plunge for the B Positive Foundation.

What have you learned about leadership?

That you can't do it all by yourself and you really have to rely on your sisters and delegate. Filling leadership positions has also helped me with my management skills.

What is your favorite part about Greek Life?

Being a part of something bigger. It's nice having class and always knowing at least one person from the Greek community.

Bryce Spiegel

Senior
Business Management
Sigma Phi Epsilon

Where are you from?

Shamong, NJ

What are your commitments outside of your fraternity?

I work three jobs, I am a full-time student, I'm the Treasurer of SHRM, Rotaract, Marketing Club, ICF, German Club, and I help with philanthropy and other Greek Organizations.

What does your organization do to get involved with the community?

We have been involved with Hope House, AHA HeartWalk, Relay for Life, and fundraisers for our national philanthropy YouthAIDS.

What have you learned about leadership?

I've learned how to manage my time, how to lead different groups and types of people according to their culture and personality, preparation, the importance of leadership and how to manage a business in all aspects.

What is your favorite part about Greek Life?

Brotherhood.

ALPHA DELTA PI

CARI NOGAS

Alpha Delta Pi sorority was founded in Macon, Ga. at Wesleyan University in 1851. Alpha Delta Pi currently consists of 140 active collegiate chapters throughout the United States and Canada.

The sisters of Alpha Delta Pi are committed to serving their philanthropy, the Ronald McDonald House Charities. They host many fundraisers in order to support more than 300 Ronald McDonald houses in 52 countries. The closest Ronald McDonald house in the surrounding area is in Charleston, which the sisters of Alpha Delta Pi frequently visit. The sisters make dinner for the families and make them feel welcome.

Alpha Delta Pi was the first secret society for women. They all live by the motto 'We live for each other.' The organization was founded on the principles of leadership, scholarship, service to others and sisterhood.

The Coastal Carolina chapter of Alpha Delta Pi was founded in April of 2007.

"I love being able to get to know so many diverse individuals," said Kelsey Dusenbery, an active member. "I love being able to share a sisterhood with all of them."

Alpha Delta Pi continues to grow and recruit prestigious women to their sisterhood.

THINGS TO KNOW

Flower: Violet

Symbol: Diamond

Mascot: 'Alphie' the lion

SOUND BODY, SOUND MIND

CHAD YATES

As the semester comes to an end and students become more and more stressed by their upcoming exams, the importance of staying physically active grows. While it is obviously important to appropriate adequate time to the mental side of exams, devoting sufficient time towards the physical is something that should not be ignored.

According to publichealthreports.com, "physical activity has positive effects on mental health in both clinical and nonclinical populations." That is, to say, that exercise has a positive effect on the brain regardless if you consider yourself mentally healthy or not.

"I work out on a fairly regular basis. When I don't, I don't always feel as sharp as I normally do," said Finni O'Callaghan, junior Education major. The reason for this is because exercise acts as an excellent stress reliever by releasing endorphins to the brain, causing you to feel good. Feeling this way allows you to better focus on academia.

Coastal Carolina offers many outlets for students to stay physically fit when stress reaches its highest points. Namely, campus recreation offers classes such as: spinning, Zumba, Pilates, Yoga and Boot Camp.

"I like how fitness classes don't just stop when exam week comes around," said Jessica Bement, senior Communication major. "It gives you a great opportunity to keep your workouts regular without compromising your schedule."

The full list of classes and times are as follows:

Friday 12/9

12:00-1:00pm Spinning
1:00-1:45pm Pump It up
2:00-3:00pm Zumba
4:30-5:30pm Spinning

Monday 12/12

12:00-1pm Spinning
1:00-1:30pm Abs
2:00-3:00pm Pilates
4:30-5:45pm Spin® and Core 5:00-6:00pm Zumba (small gym)
6:00-7:15pm Power Flow Yoga

Tuesday 12/13

12:00-1:00pm Zumba
1:00-1:45pm Pump it up
4:00-4:30pm Boot Camp
6:15-7:15pm Zumba

Wednesday 12/14

12:00-1pm Spinning
4:30-5:45pm Spin® and Core
5:00-6:00pm Zumba (small gym)
6:00-7:15pm Power Flow Yoga
7:15-8:00pm Core & More
8:00-9:00pm Zumba

Thursday 12/15

12:00-12:45pm Pump it up

Friday 12/16

12:00-1:00pm Spinning

WCCU RADIO UPDATE

LINDEAY CHAVEZ

WCCU Radio is excited to announce its very first benefit concert hosted on Friday, Jan. 13 at Cool Daddy's Bar and Grill from 8:00 p.m. to 1:30 a.m. WCCU Radio is holding this benefit to raise money for a new programming system to help the station succeed. With the help of the community, the station will run for years to come. There is a five-dollar cover charge, with all proceeds going to WCCU Radio. Death of Paris, American Parts and Drew Jacobs and the Sauce will perform at the concert. Come out to support the station while having a great time!

WCCU Radio management is looking for more on-air staff! If you are interested in hosting your own radio show, please contact anyone on the WCCU Radio staff to set up an audition date. Come prepared with a complete concept of a show, your availability and ready to show off your radio voice!

If you are having trouble listening to the station online, it is available on iTunes Radio, then College Radio, search "Coastal Carolina." There is also an app available on Android and iPhone; "Tune In" and search "Coastal Carolina."

Listen live every hour of everyday to WCCU Radio!

the
COVE

at Coastal Carolina

You're definitely going to LIKE the Cove at Coastal Carolina.

Hurry and like our page today!

Stop by our leasing trailer at the corner of 544 and Wofford Road. Be one of the first 60 to sign a lease and get a discounted rate!

TheCoveCCU.com | 888.807.4090

1138 Hwy 544
Conway, SC 29526

THEY CAGE THE ANIMALS AT NIGHT

CHAD YATES

Last week, the Myrtle Beach Training Complex hosted a pretty sweet night of cage fighting. I know it's stereotypical for me and a bunch of my guy friends to watch some people get their faces turned to mashed potatoes, but I don't care. For me, as someone who has never seen a fight like this in person, there's nowhere else I would rather have been for those four and a half hours.

Perhaps it was just the adrenaline and immensely high levels of testosterone at the fight, but something about it made me just want to hop in the cage. While I'm fairly confident in my athletic and physical capabilities, I know those dudes would kick my ass.

What really impresses me is the dedication those guys have to their sport. It's just ridiculous. One of my friends from high school was actually fighting in the 155 lbs. weight class, and he was easily 190 lbs. about six months ago. It's not like he was an out-of-shape 190 lbs., either. I worked out with him at the beginning of last summer and he put me to shame. Just the fact that he dropped that much weight in such a short amount of time while still gaining strength speaks for their training.

Unfortunately, my friend ended up losing his fight, but it was definitely my second to favorite fight of the night. I was confident heading towards the end of the night that it was going to be my favorite, but the heavyweight bout between two 260 lbs. animals was enough to change my mind.

Know how I said above that I wanted to hop in the cage? For this one, not so much. The power of these dudes blows my mind. As I sit here writing this, my roommate estimates that a punch from one of these fighters exerts between 1,000-1,300 lbs. of force. Needless to say, I wouldn't want to be on the receiving end of that.

I guess I sort of consider my watching this awesomeness as a reversion to a somewhat primitive nature. In my opinion, these fights almost allowed for throwing socially acceptable behaviors out the window and induced a semi-barbaric feeling. And to be honest, the feeling was rather nice.

Student Government Association

Photo Courtesy of Shane Norris

WHAT STUDENTS ARE THINKING

COURTNEY MULLIS

It is important for students to be involved and form opinions about their education and their university. There are always ways a school can be improved, and there are often many things students would not want to see changed.

Senior Accounting major Ly Pham said she likes Coastal's Student Government Association.

"It's really cool," says Pham. "Especially the Student Body President. He works really hard to improve the student experience at Coastal."

This shows university life is only what the students make of it.

In addition to diligent and involved students, Coastal boasts professors who care about their students.

Freshman Shaun Payne, who is working toward a double major in Marketing and Business Management, said what he likes most about Coastal is "how most of the faculty will go out of their way to help students."

On a similar note, freshman Exercise and

Sport Science major Jonathan Brown said, "I like the fact that tutoring sessions are offered."

However, like at any university, there are things students dislike. Freshman Applied Mathematics major Damien Wright thinks the First Year Experience class is "a waste of time."

"Being an Exercise and Sport Science major, classes fill up really quickly," said junior Ryan Cox.

Cox thinks Coastal should employ more professors so there could be more sections per class.

Freshman Marine Science major Allison Murphey wishes students showed more school spirit.

Murphey feels the school needs improvement from the inside, starting with students' attitudes.

Over Winter Break, take time to consider what you like and dislike about Coastal. Decide what you can do about it, and if there is something you would like to tell The Chanticleer, write us a letter to the Editor and let us know.

A NOT-SO-SAPPY REFLECTION

SHANE NORRIS

As the semester draws to a close, I realized this is my last fall semester of college, at least at the undergraduate level, and it occurred to me how fast it has gone by. Don't worry, this isn't about to be one of those sappy looking-back stories...I'll save that for next semester. This is just going to be a list of some observations I've made in my three and a half years here so far.

One of the most important parts of college is to remember why you're here. I love to have fun, and I don't think you're living if you can't let some things just slide off your back or kick back and relax, even if it means rushing later. That being said, you're in college for a higher education, and that's an opportunity that a lot of people never even get. So have fun, party, go to the beach, do what you find entertaining, but remember that you're here to learn when it comes down to it. Because, in four to five years, you're most likely going to be going into the real world and your future boss isn't going to care how many killer parties you threw, but they will care if you learned how to write in AP style, or know how to make a spreadsheet, or whatever skills your professors are trying to teach you.

Another important tip I can give you is to be smart about who you choose to live with. Freshman year, you don't have too much of a choice, and I think that's kind of a good thing because it forces you to develop personal skills. But as you get older, you get a choice. Living with friends is generally a safe choice, but make sure before you sign a lease or decide to request them for on-campus housing that you discuss things. If you're a neat and tidy person and your friends are sloppy, there's bound to be some arguments. If you want to have pets, make sure they do too. If you like to party or go out a lot, it's probably better to pick a friend that also follows that lifestyle. If you or your roommates are in a relationship, make sure they're cool with having your boyfriend or girlfriend over.

It can get annoying if you're paying rent and utilities with an extra person staying at your place using your water and electricity and not paying a cent. So, if you do that, living with a friend is most likely going to work out great, but what I advocate strongly against is living with a random roommate. This is highly risky, because if it turns out that they aren't the most responsible or best roommate for you...then you're stuck with them for the next 10-12 months.

Those are the two most important things I can think of now, without getting too sappy. Just be smart and enjoy it, because it's gone before you know it.

Over 1,000 Quality Pre-Owned Tires
*10% Discount for CCU/HGTC
(not included with other offers)

COASTAL DOLLAR TIRE & AUTO SERVICE

FULL SERVICE
MAINTENANCE/REPAIR

AC
BRAKES
FUEL
CLUTCHES
RADIATORS
TIRES
TRANSMISSIONS
STARTERS & MORE!

676 Hwy 544
Conway, SC
29526

843-347-8902

Over 1,000 Used Tires!

WWW.CoastalDollarTireLube.com

M-F 8am-5pm/Sat 8am-12pm

Can Charge Parents Credit Card Over the Phone

www.justiceislovely.com

THE LOVELY LAW FIRM

JUSTIN LOVELY

DUI • AUTO ACCIDENTS
CRIMINAL LAW
INJURY LAW
DRUG CRIMES
TRAFFIC & SPEEDING
PERSONAL INJURY

Call Today

(843) 839-4111

AMY LAWRENCE

3541 FOUNTAIN LANE • ST. JAMES SQUARE
38TH AVENUE N. & GRISSOM PARKWAY, MYRTLE BEACH, SC 29577

8 brainbuster

The Chanticleer Vol: 50 Issue 11

TRIVIA

- 1) Who lived at 221B, Baker Street, London?
- 2) Who as the main actor in "Cocktail"?
- 3) What's the largest city in India?
- 4) When did the Second World War end?
- 5) How many squares are there on a chess board?
- 6) What does the female praying mantis do after she's made love?

QUOTES

Act in the valley so that you need not fear those who stand on the hill.
- Danish proverb

If you can't describe what you are doing as a process, you don't know what you're doing.
- W. Edwards Deming

All my life I've wanted to be someone; I guess I should have been more specific.
- Jane Wagner/Lily Tomlin

Each problem that I solved became a rule, which served afterwards to solve other problems.
- Rene Descartes

Don't stay in bed, unless you can make money in bed.
- George Burns

		4		6			5
6			7					1
				9	4	7		3
3	9					8	1
		6				5
	2	8					7	6
9		1	4	2
4					6			9
	6			3		1

Daily SuDoku: Wed 7-Dec-2011

very hard

(c) Daily SuDoku Ltd 2011. All rights reserved.

ANSWERS

- 1) Sherlock Holmes
- 2) Tom Cruise
- 3) Bombay
- 4) 1945
- 5) 64
- 6) Eats the male

7	1	4	2	6	3	9	5	8
6	3	9	7	8	5	4	2	1
8	5	2	1	9	4	7	6	3
3	9	7	6	5	2	8	1	4
1	4	6	3	7	8	5	9	2
5	2	8	9	4	1	3	7	6
9	8	1	4	2	7	6	3	5
4	7	3	5	1	6	2	8	9
2	6	5	8	3	9	1	4	7

Daily SuDoku: Wed 7-Dec-2011

very hard

CRIME LOG

Breach of the peace- 12/7

CCU DPS officers responded to University Place for a noise complaint. This was the second time officers responded to this location on this date. The officers located the subject apartment and contacted the residents. The four residents were issued citations and the other occupants were told to leave the apartment.

Grand Larceny- 12/5

CCU DPS officers responded to the baseball field in reference to a larceny complaint. The officers interviewed the complainant who described the missing property and the circumstances of the incident. The property was entered into NCIC as stolen. This incident is under investigation.

Simple possession, possession of paraphernalia- 12/5

CCU DPS officers responded to Ingle Hall in reference to a complaint of possible drug use. The officers located the subject apartment and contacted the occupants. The occupants were interviewed and found to be in possession of marijuana and paraphernalia. All the occupants of the apartment are being referred into the Student Conduct Process for the University. Additionally one subject was issued citations and released.

Intimidation, stalking- 12/4

A CCU DPS officer responded to University Place in reference to suspicious activity. The officer interviewed the victim at the scene. The victim identified a possible subject and described the circumstances of the incident. The subject was contacted by telephone and located. The subject was interviewed, arrested and transported to the Horry County Detention Center.

Courtesy of CCU Dept. of Public Safety

Women's Resource Center

Stressing over exams?

Need a quiet place to study?

Stop by the WRC!

In Her Words

Weekly Discussion

In response to last week's question, you should have a talk with your roommate. Being open and honest is always the best policy. You should explain to your roommate how their lifestyle is affecting you in such a negative manner.

...Have a question you feel should be answered, we'll just email wrc@coastal.edu

The Women's Resource Center offers a quiet environment for you to get your study on!

CURRENT EVENTS

DATE	EVENT	TIME & PLACE
12-05-2011	BYOBreakfast	8:00 am WRC Wall 313
12-07-2011	BYOSnack	1:00 pm WRC Wall 313
12-08-2011	BYOCreativity	12:00 pm WRC Wall 313

In 1996, Congress unanimously passed the Drug Induced Rape Prevention and Punishment Act, which provides severe sentences of up to 20 years for anyone convicted for possession of a controlled substance with the intent to commit a crime of violence, including sexual assault.

Source: http://www.victimtosurvivor.org/date_rape.html

www.victimtosurvivor.org/date_rape.html

GOOD LUCK ON YOUR FINALS!

Upscale Salon

Featuring:
LED Rejuvenation Light Therapy
(Promotes Collagen Production)
Multi-Level Tanning Packages
Airbrush Spray Tanning
HCG Weight Loss System
Complete Line of Nutritional/Energy Products

SOL 360*

TANNING AND NUTRITION CENTER

Mon-Thur 9am-9pm Fri 9am-8pm
Sat 9am-7pm Sun 12pm-6pm
Carolina Forest Kroger Shopping Center
236-VIT-D (8483)
www.sol360tan.com
$10 off all month packages

Archer's
ACTION AUTO SERVICE CENTER

Located right next to Domino's off 501 —
103 Gardner Lacy Rd.
Myrtle Beach, SC 29579
(843) 347-6638

"Family Owned and Operated in Carolina Forest since 2000"

Many at CCU travel home or elsewhere during the upcoming holiday season. Archer's has been keeping students safe and parents happy in this area for over 11 years. Every vehicle that comes to our shop for an oil change receives a full-service trip check. We believe a brief yet thorough inspection at regular intervals goes a long way towards preventing costly and inconvenient breakdowns. While we only use quality Pennzoil and NAPA products, our standard service is competitively priced between $27-30.

Feel free to stop by or make an appointment for servicing. We can be reached via phone, email, or our website. All students, administration, & faculty are invited to inquire about our 'Customer Appreciation Card'. It's complimentary and has 13 free & discounted services which can be redeemed by our valued customers.

Professional
Automotive Repair of
All Makes & Models

AAA
Approved
Auto Repair

- Diagnostic Experts
- Engines / Transmissions
- Air Conditioning
- Computers & Electrical
- Tire Sales & Service
- Brakes / Alignments
- Preventative Maintenance

www.archersactionauto.com

Monday-Saturday:
7:30am to 5:00pm (3pm Sat)

- After hours key-drop
- Accept credit card payment over the phone
- All repairs carry a 12-month, 12,000 mile Nationwide warranty on parts and labor

Photo Courtesy of Corinne Dalelio

PROFESSOR PROFILE

Corinne M. Dalelio, Ph.D.

Assistant Professor

Department of Communication

Favorites:

Book – Songs of the Gorilla Nation by Dawn Prince Hughes – a fascinating memoir of one woman's struggle with autism and how she learned to relate to humans through her work with gorillas at the zoo. Her account highlights the complexities and subtleties of human communication that we mostly take for granted.

Band – The Beatles. With so much variety in their discography, what's not to love?

Food – Sushi, especially the Philadelphia Roll – all the food groups in one delicious combination!

Quote – “Be the change you want to see in the world” – Mahatma Gandhi

When you are not teaching, what are you doing? Spending time with my husband, enjoying nature, hiking, camping, taking road trips, sewing, watching movies.

What is your greatest accomplishment? Earning my doctorate degree, especially writing the dissertation. It is a true test of your will.

Who is your Hero and why? Ron Paul, because he always sticks to his principles no matter where he is or whom he's talking to.

Words of wisdom for students: Follow your passions, be true to yourself, and success will follow. If you enjoy what you are doing, you will want to work hard and always be motivated to achieve more.

WE WANT YOU!

We are currently seeking as many contributing writers as possible. We encourage any prospective writers to attend our weekly meetings on Mondays at 6:30 p.m. in the Lib Jackson Center room 206. The Chanticleer is a great way for prospective writers to acquire published material and gain valuable experience for possible internships and job opportunities. Story ideas can be submitted to The Chanticleer via email at chanticleernews@gmail.com. You can follow us on Twitter @ChanticleerNews, and look for us on Facebook at The Chanticleer. We look forward to receiving your articles and welcoming you to our staff.

WHAT'S THE WORD?

COURTNEY MULLIS

Each week the Chanticleer ask our readers a random question.

We asked CCU students...

How do you handle the stress of exam week?

“I don't study until the day before. I just put it off.”

– Kenny Jackson, Freshman, Middle Level Education

“I play video games.”

– Paul Bowers, Freshman, Mathematics

“I try to do the least amount of last-minute studying as possible.”

– Crystal Hunt, Freshman, Accounting

Photo Courtesy of all three by Courtney Mullis

CHAUNCEY'S CINEMA

The editor weighs in on upcoming movies.

National Lampoon's Christmas Vacation: This film is the National Lampoon series follows the crazy adventures of Clark Griswold and his family as they embark on a Christmas full of disaster and hilarious predicaments. If this holiday chuckle doesn't make you reconsider thoughts that your family is out there, I don't think anything can.

Elf: ‘Buddy the Elf what's your favorite color?’ pretty much sums up this 2003 instant classic. Not much can get you in the Christmas spirit quite like the shenanigans pulled by the oversized elf, like loading syrup onto a hearty serving of spaghetti or scavenging the streets of New York for “free candy”. An annual viewing is definitely in order.

Nightmare Before Christmas: Tim Burton's stop-motion film clashes the concept of Halloween and Christmas into perhaps one of the most well known seasonal films. When the notion of Christmas is introduced to Jack Skellington, the Pumpkin King of Halloween Town, our protagonist sets out on an uphill battle to brighten up the gloomy town with some good old fashioned Christmas spirit.

TEAL TUNES

What's coming from the headphones of The Chanticleer staff?

Shane

A Sailor's Christmas by Jimmy Buffett

“One of my favorite Christmas songs from one of my favorite artists.”

Chad

Family Business by Kanye West

“Too bad Kanye strayed from his roots.”

Jenna

Colours by Grouplove

“It makes wanna go to the beach and surf...I wish it was summer”

PLAYER PROFILE

ASHTON BENETT

Forward, Men's Soccer

Junior Ashton Bennett netted 14 goals in 22 games for the Men's Soccer team as he led them to the second round of NCAA Tournament this season, only to fall 3-2 to the number one seeded UNC Tarheels. Bennett was recently named one of the 15 semifinalists for the Missouri Athletic Club's Hermann Trophy, one of the nation's top soccer honors.

Photo Courtesy of Robby Nichol

SHANIKA MADDOX

Forward, Women's Basketball

Sophomore Shanika Maddox scored 19 points and ripped 12 rebounds in the Lady Chants' win against Coker College two weeks ago. The 19 points was a career high for the forward as she sparked the team's second half comeback against the Cobras.

Photo Courtesy of CCU Athletics

LACROSSE SIGNS TWO TOP-25 PLAYERS IN INAUGURAL CLASS

TJ SUNDBERG

Coastal Carolina's newest athletic team, Women's Lacrosse, released its first signing class two weeks ago. Among the 18 girl signees, two are in ESPN's Top 25 defensive player ranking.

Kings Park, New York native Kaitlyn Trodden is one of the players. Trodden participated in multiple tournaments during her high school years and has played on two premiere Long Island lacrosse club teams (Team Elevate and Long Island Express).

Vienna, Virginia native Rachel Waldron is ranked 46th in the nation and 10th best defensive-midfielder in her class by ESPN. Waldron tallied 95 points for the Marshall Statesmen last season on her way to Under Armour Underclassmen All-American awards.

The newly appointed Chanticleers will enroll in Fall 2012 classes and begin practice for their first season in Spring 2013.

COASTAL AND CAMPBELL START STRONG

TJ SUNDBERG

Every season in the Big South Conference, it seems as if a different school takes charge to battle Coastal. In 2010, it was Winthrop, last season it was UNC-Asheville. This season, the Big South newcomers, the Campbell Fighting Camels, accepted the challenge.

Both schools, to date, are 8-1 with out of conference losses. Both schools have a scorer averaging more than 18 points a game in Darren White for Campbell, and Anthony Raffa for the Chanticleers. Both schools have impressive wins over power conference opponents. And last, but not least, both schools started 2-0 in conference play this season.

If the conference foes keep their impressive resumes up, it makes the January 2 matchup at Campbell all the more important.

"Any conference game is an important game, it's a two game swing. But if both of these teams go into the game with one loss, the game could mean a lot in terms of the Big South," said Ryan Borawski, Lady Chanticleers play-by-play announcer and Coastal Carolina student.

The two teams meet twice in a 36-day span, and if there is enough on the line, a new rivalry could be in the works for the Chanticleers.

"I don't know what their arena is like," said Borawski. "But I don't think they can handle Kimbel Arena."

TJ'S TAKE

Tim tebow, taking the NFL by storm

TJ SUNDBERG

For eight weeks now, Denver Broncos quarterback Tim Tebow has stolen America's heart. Why?

Tebow is the most unconventional quarterback to take a snap in my lifetime. His stat line is nowhere near the league average for a passer in today's NFL, and his ball wobbles more than a bridge in an earthquake. Yet, everybody and their mother seems to love him. And I mean LOVE him.

Fans in Denver bought billboards stating their case for the Broncos to start the Florida product. ESPN dedicated a whole hour of SportsCenter to him last week. A recent LA Times poll said 63 percent of the country thinks he should be this season's MVP, and this is a season in which Aaron Rodgers and Drew Brees are on pace to absolutely shatter the NFL's coveted passing records.

And the best part is, Tebow's play is simply mediocre, and he isn't playing anybody.

In his one real test, he scored more points for the other team than he did for his own team. Other than that, he's beaten teams without their starting quarterbacks, running backs or teams that just flat out stunk up the joint. But the fans just keep on sipping their Tebow Kool-Aid.

Yeah, I know Tebow is one of the hardest working, best-conditioned athletes on his team, but he hasn't even won half his games. If it wasn't for his defense or the sudden reawakening of injury-prone Willis McGahee, they wouldn't even be in half of these games.

Listen, I'm not going to take anything away from him, he's winning. But let's not give all the credit to Timmy T. It's the holidays, Tebow fans, spread the wealth.

CORRECTIONS

At The Chanticleer, we are committed to the highest level of accuracy. We welcome any corrections found in this issue. Please e-mail mistakes to: chanticleernews@gmail.com.

THE POLLS SHOW NO LOVE TO THE CHANTS...YET

DAVID TEIXEIRA

After two promising conference wins this week, the Chanticleers men's basketball team is yet to receive votes in the AP or Coaches polls, and are yet to reach the top-25 in the mid-major poll, all of which came out on Monday, Dec. 5.

To that date, the Chanticleers boast an impressive 7-1 record, which includes the two conference wins over VMI and Liberty, and huge program wins over LSU and Clemson. The Chants dominated on the court, and some may find it disappointing that they are overlooked and put behind teams such as Butler in the mid-major poll, which holds a lousy 4-4 record.

Perhaps the one loss to FIU is the big difference in all of this. Had that Chants not been upset at the buzzer by the Golden Panthers, Coastal would hold an 8-0 record to start their season. Mid-major schools Creighton and most recently Harvard jumped into the AP top-25 poll after undefeated starts.

While some may argue that the Chants are deserving of more respect, others will say that there are a lot more important tasks on hand than just reaching the polls. Brooke Brown, a junior who has attended all six home games to date, is one of those people.

"We just need to win the tournament this year," said Brown. "We don't need any more distractions."

Perhaps she's right. Last year, Chanticleer fans had to deal with the heartbreak of losing to a mediocre Gardner-Webb team, which arguably prevented the Chants from entering the AP top-25 for the first time in school history. Before the loss, the Chants rode a 26-game win streak, were ranked third in the mid-major polls, and were just two spots away from reaching the AP polls. The Chants never picked back up from that point, playing out the remaining four games on their schedule, only to lose to UNC-Ashville in the Big South Conference Tournament, and reach the NIT for the second straight year.

Whether the AP polls are a goal or not for this team, the Chanticleers' season looks promising.

Photo Courtesy of Robby Nichol

WOMEN'S SOCCER EARNS ACADEMIC RECOGNITION

DAVID TEIXEIRA

It may have been ugly for the Women's Soccer team on the field this season as they underwent the rebuilding process, but there was one bright side to the season. The Chants were one of 568 teams chosen for the National Soccer Coaches Association of America Team Academic Award for the 2010-2011 season.

To earn this award, the team's overall grade point average must be at least a 3.0 in the calendar year. This is the 11th consecutive season the team has earned such honors.

"It's great to know that our work in the classroom paid off," said Ashley Day, junior forward, who tallied two points in her nine starts this season.

The men's soccer team did their work in the classroom as well as they received the same award.

Photo Courtesy of Robby Nichol

the CHANTICLEER

EMAIL QUESTIONS, LETTERS
TO THE EDITOR, AND CORRECTIONS TO:
CHANTICLEERNEWS@GMAIL.COM

College Night

Your favorite spot for college and pro football with over 55 TVs!

Every Wednesday - Party Starts at 9 - Doors Open at 5

Featuring the Hottest Live Music
on the Strand!

Nov. 9th & 30th
Josh Brannon Band

ONE PLACE, ONE GREAT LOCATION
CELEBRITY SQUARE • BROADWAY AT THE BEACH • 843-626-6644
WWW.FANTASTICCLUBS.COM • TEXT BLARNEYS TO 84464 FOR EVENT INFO

1. Protect the Rooster
CCU's reputation

2. Take Ownership
Don't blame others

3. It's about me
Find your passion

4. It's about others
Learn to serve

5. Prioritize activities
What's really important

6. Eat the frog
Don't procrastinate

7. Persevere
Learn from mistakes

Want to know more?
Call Counseling Services at (843)-349-2305

SMART
CHOICE

facebook.
question of the week

Who is your favorite Christmas
Character?

8
Jesus Christ

7 Heat/
Snow Miser

3 Mr. Hankey